

CliniSciences joins Angels Santé as Associate Corporate Member

Paris, France - May 25, 2021 - CliniSciences, a European group distributing reagents, consumables and instruments for research and diagnostic labs, has become an associate corporate member of Angels Santé, the leading European network of business angels specialising in healthcare. Through this partnership, CliniSciences and Angels Santé state their support for innovation and start-ups in the health sector in Europe

One of the observations made by Angels Santé is the need to strengthen the healthcare ecosystem by creating a continuum of partners and skills, along with the financial investments in start-ups developing biomedical innovations. The growing interest of large corporations in open innovation and the increasing flow of start-up projects have led Angels Santé to further structure its activities by creating the status of associate corporate member.

As associate corporate member, CliniSciences will support innovative healthcare start-ups not only with its research and diagnostic solutions but also through its strong distribution network in Europe. Start-ups will also find technical and marketing expertise from CliniSciences. Finally, through Angels Santé, CliniSciences will have the opportunity to invest in start-ups whose innovations are synergistic to its own and/or to form strategic partnerships with them.

"We are very happy to join the Angels Santé network. This partnership reflects our determination to support start-ups and accelerate innovation in the healthcare field. Joining a specialized network of business angels in healthcare such as Angels Santé is a way for us to achieve this effectively.", comments Tushendan Rasiah, CEO of CliniSciences.

"We are delighted to welcome a European group such as CliniSciences, whose expertise and resources allow us to strengthen our support to entrepreneurs while addressing to the open innovation and investment strategy of a large group. " adds Bernard Kirsch, President of Angels Santé.

About Angels Santé

As the leading network of healthcare business angels in Europe, Angels Santé is at the heart of the healthcare seed stage. Present in France, Angels Santé is also a key player in Europe as a member of the European Business Angels Europe (BAE) and European Business Angels Network (EBAN), as well as the operator of the EIT Health Investor Network programme.

Angels Santé's mission is to :

- Detect innovative European start-ups that propose to respond to the major challenges of the healthcare system with solutions that are both medically beneficial and economically responsible.
- Promote their seed phase by providing capital and expertise from its specialists.
- Federate around its investment recommendations generalist investors.

For more information about Angels Santé : <https://www.angelssante.fr/>

About CliniSciences

For over 40 years, CliniSciences has been supplying reagents, consumables and instruments for research and diagnostic throughout Europe. The company offers a comprehensive catalogue of products from around the world to provide the pharmaceutical industry, biotech companies and academic and hospital laboratories with solutions tailored to their needs. The strength of the group comes from the sales and technical teams deployed in 15 European countries and composed of scientists capable of advising in different languages in order to be as close as possible to the customers' needs and to provide them with personalised assistance.

More information about CliniSciences : <https://www.clinisciences.com>

Press contact

Angels Santé

Ophélie Philipot

Press Relations Officer

Ophelie.Philipot@comopi.tech

Maéva Joalland

General Secretary

info@angelssante.fr

Clinisciences

Tushendan Rasiah

CEO of CliniSciences

info@clinisciences.com